The Tree in the Courtyard by Jeff Gottesfeld is a unique way to teach children about the Holocaust. Told from the perspective of the tree that sat outside Anne Frank's window, the tree recounts its life and the smiling girl who lived in the attic with her family, the scary bombs, and how the little girl never came back.

Anne's life through the musings of a chestnut tree just outside her window, a tree that Frank notes multiple times in her diary.

Where Anne's diary ends, the tree—through its own cycle of life and death—offers readers a viewpoint from which to consider what happened afterwards and the many ways that she inspires the world to continue as she did her family.
